

Outdooractive hikes

All of our self-guided and guided hikers will receive downloadable GPS versions of your hiking maps and routes. This is how you use them.

Get your free Outdooractive Pro+ account

All Alpinehikers clients get a free 90 day membership. All you need is an email and password, and a voucher code, which we will email to you. No credit card and nothing to cancel. Your 90 day membership starts as soon as you create the account, so do this within 90 days of your tour.

Redeem the codes at <https://www.outdooractive.com/en/voucher.html>

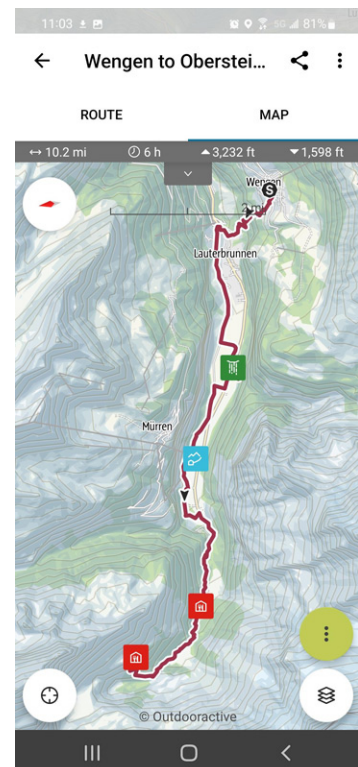

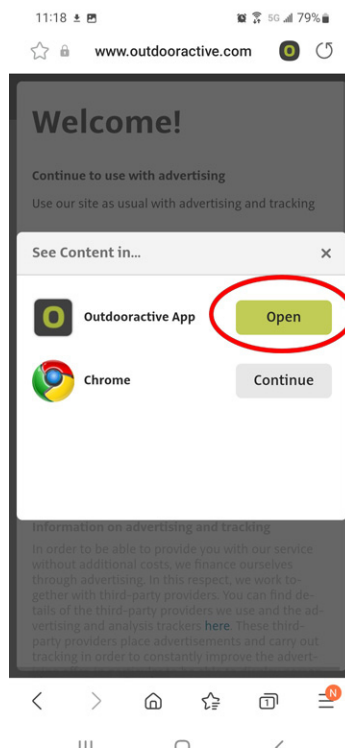

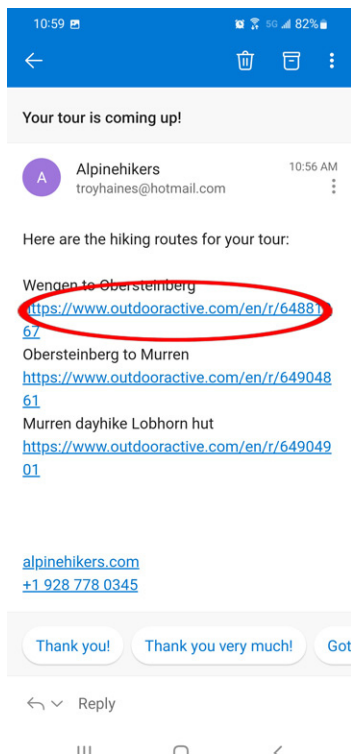

You can still use the app without a Pro+ account, but a pro account removes ads and allows you to download routes for offline use. Voucher codes can only be redeemed on a desktop or in the web version, not in the app. After a synchronization, all Pro+ features can then be used in the app

Download the Outdooractive app

From the app store. Log in with your new pro account

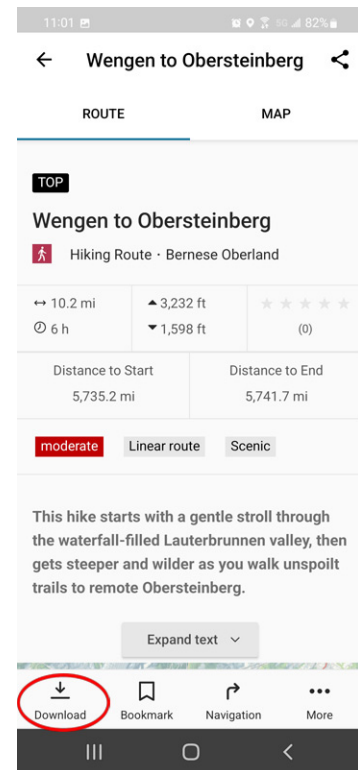

Check our email with your hiking routes

When you click on the hiking route link, choose to open it in the app

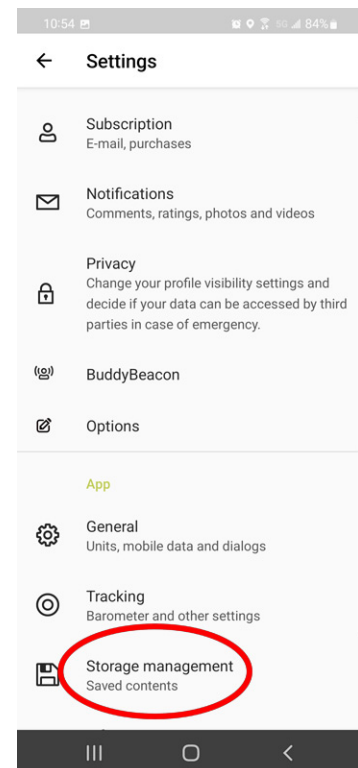

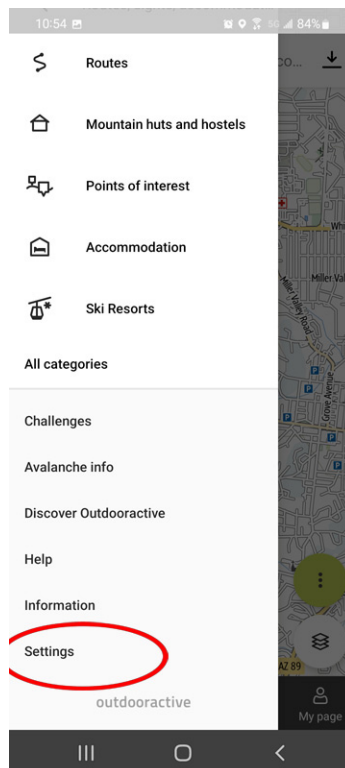

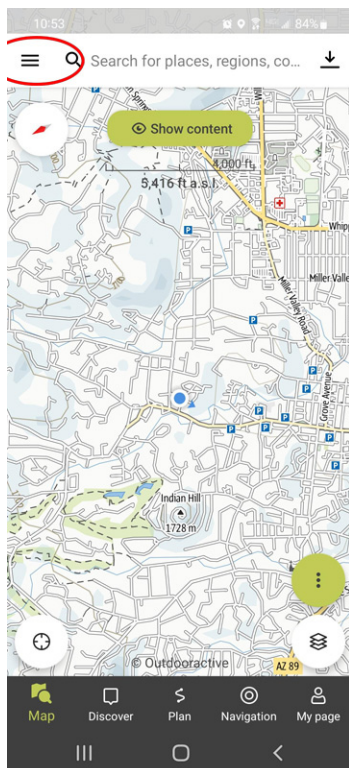

Download the hikes to your phone

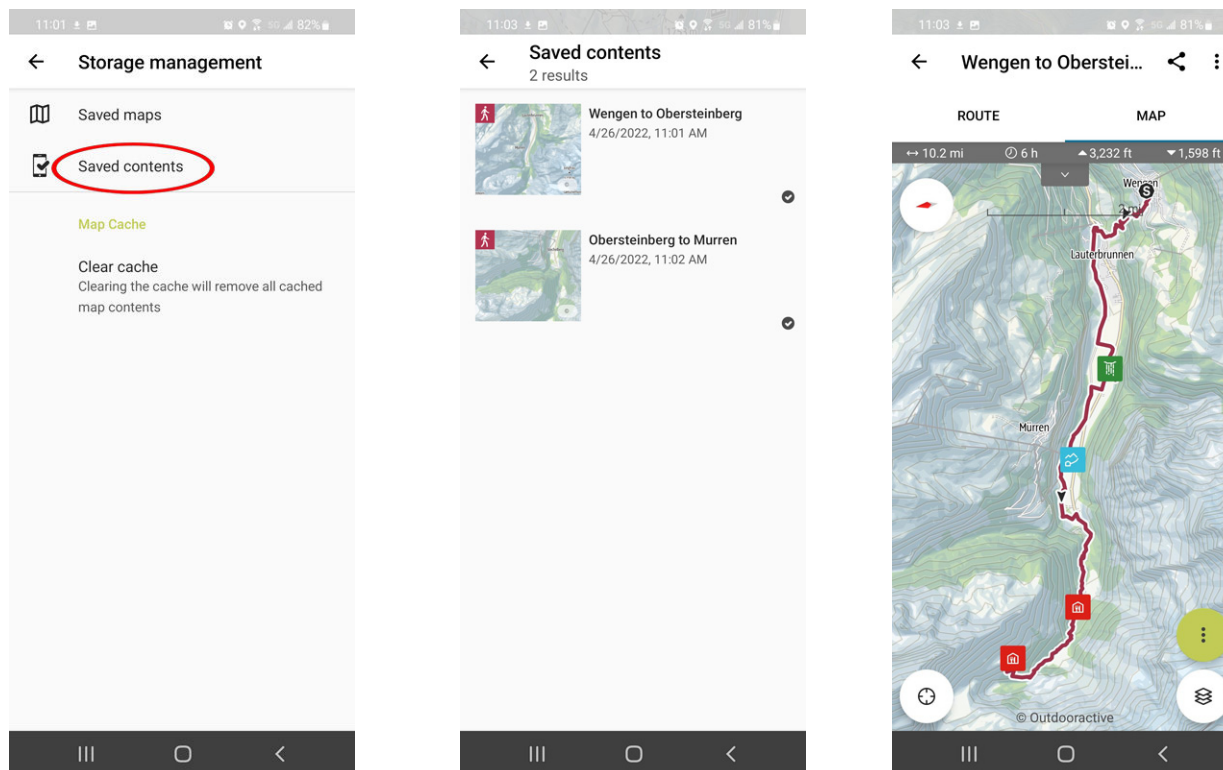

Do this while you have wifi to save data, from your hotel the night before, or before you leave home.

To access your saved routes

Open the app and click on Menu → Settings → Storage Management → Saved Contents

Then choose your hike. Turn on airplane mode and navigate by GPS while offline.

Pro Tip 1... Bookmark your routes

Once you've downloaded a route, click the 3 dots ("More"), and bookmark the route to the "Want to do" collection. Then when you open Outdooractive, click "My page" from the bottom right, and "Bookmarked" to find your "Want to do" collection

Pro Tip 2... Discover the skyline feature

Click "Track" on the bottom bar, then the 3 dots, then "Skyline". Give Outdooractive access to your camera and point it at the mountains to see the name of local peaks and points of interest in front of you.

Have fun on the trail!
